

iPayment, Inc. Announces New Partnership with Parlevel Extends Parlevel's value based offerings in vending management

(New York, NY) April 15, 2016 – iPayment, Inc., a premier provider of payment solutions and processing services, today announced a new partnership agreement with Parlevel, the fastest growing provider of vending management solutions (VMS) for vending operators and office coffee service (OCS) providers. As a result of this new partnership, Parlevel is positioned to add incremental value for their VMS and OCS customers by offering simplified, integrated payment-processing services and acceptance solutions.

“Our vision is to create a significantly better work life for our customers,” said Luis Gonzales, CEO of Parlevel. “As we evaluated potential new business extensions, we realized that there was a real opportunity around payment acceptance and processing. In our research, we found that iPayment offered the customization, support and pricing models we felt were imperative for our business and more importantly, our customers’ businesses.”

“Parlevel presented us with a unique opportunity to create a program specifically tailored for their marketplace and their valued customers,” said Greg Castro, VP, Business Development, iPayment. “We needed to create a payments offering that provided full transparency, while also being easy to implement and manage. In the end we are thrilled with the outcome and we look forward to a long and mutually beneficial partnership with Parlevel and their VMS and OCS customers.”
